Rescue Corner

Daisi is still waiting for her furever family to find her. She needs another dog in the home and a family that is home most of the time. Daisi loves her people and she snuggles like there is no tomorrow. We bought her a toddler bed to sleep in at night in our bedroom and she loves it. Daisi can be persistent when she wants something - she is very determined, but generally she just wants to lay on the couch next to you and hang out.

OPTICAL ILLUSIONS

CROPPING AND DOCKING

Original Photo

Same bitch-cropped and docked

The above photographs are identical in size. I did not change the body of the bitch in any way. The only difference between the two is that I removed the handler and gave her cropped ears and a shorter tail. (by courtesy of Paint Shop Pro)

Cropping and docking can make a visual difference to how people view a dog, as there is no doubt the cropped dog looks taller and therefore gives the illusion of being more elegant. Judges and breeders alike, must learn to judge the complete dog, not just the illusion and not to let their preferences get in the way of judgment!

EAR CROP

Same dog with ears lengthened to a normal crop

In the Two head studies above of CH Encore's Sheridan, Cheryl Cates lengthened his ears to that of a normal crop. He was sold uncropped as a puppy, then received a horribly short crop. After he returned to Encore, she had his ears recropped, and although they did not prevent him from finishing, they certainly changed his look. She has given him back his ears in the second photo above.

Many Thanks for this example Cheryl!
